Seminary Internship Scholarships for Congregations

Many congregations in the AFCLC are smaller, with budgets that do not allow them to have a seminary intern. Some of these congregations would be fantastic training grounds for our future pastors. This new scholarship fund has been created for the express purpose of enabling these congregations to consider having an intern for a year. It is not intended for all congregations, but only for those who could not financially consider an intern due to budget constraints. Now, through the Lord's leading in the lives of some of our partners, the funding for this scholarship has begun.

The cost for a congregation to host an intern is approximately $40,000.00 for the year, including housing, insurance, moving expenses, plus a minimal salary. Our goal is to see this scholarship fund grow so that finances would not be a reason to decline participation in this important program of ministry training. Please prayerfully consider what the Lord would have you give in support of this seminary scholarship fund, so that there would be internship opportunities available for each future pastor to complete his training.
